Graduate Studies in history

Programs:

Ph.D. History

M.A. History

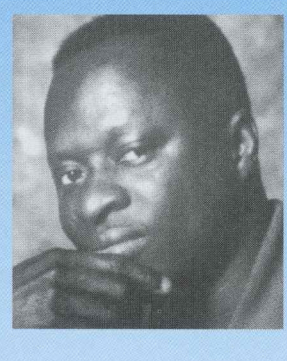
Option A: with original essay

Option B: with thesis

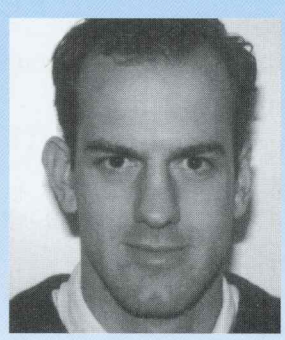
The Concordia History department's mission is both to train historians and to produce articulate and informed graduates who share its commitment to serving the broader community. To this end, the primary objective of the Graduate programs in History is to prepare students for careers in scholarship, teaching and research according to internationally recognized standards in the discipline.

The diversity of our students is a constant reminder that historical scholarship can be enormously enriched by a breath of background both vocational and geographic.

Dominique Mc Caughey
M.A. student and winner of the J. W. McConnell Graduate Fellowship



Edward Kissi
Ph.D. student and winner of The Rockefeller Foundation African Dissertation Internship Award; The Quebec Black Medical Association Graduate Scholarship; Concordia University Fellowships



Nicolas Gauvin
Ph.D. student and winner of The SSHRC Doctoral Fellowship; FCAR Doctoral Fellowship; Concordia University External Grant Holder Doctoral Scholarship

Faculty and Research Areas:

Charles L. Bertrand
Modern Italy; trade unions and politics

Frederick Bode
United States; antebellum South: religion; culture; gender; slavery

Graham Carr
Modern Canada; United States; culture; social memory

Frank Chalk
Comparative genocide; human rights; United States foreign relations

Graeme Decarie
Modern Canada; Montreal; recreation

Richard Diubaldo
Modern Canada, Canadian North

Carolyn Fick
Haiti; French West Indies; social history of slavery

Donald Ginter
Britain; 18th century; agrarian history; politics; landholding

John Hill
India; South Asia; imperialism and nationalism

William Hubbard
Modern Germany; Austria; Scandinavia; social and economic

Norman Ingram
Modern France; pacifism; intellectual history; international relations

Frederick Krantz
Renaissance Italy; intellectual history; anti-semitism

Shannon McSheffrey
Medieval England; gender; sexuality; popular religion

Diana Pedersen
Modern Canada; women; social reform; public history

Ronald Rudin
Modern Quebec; Ireland: historiography; social memory

Rosemarie Schade
Women and gender; Modern Germany

Stephen Scheinberg
Modern United States; right wing extremism; anti-semitism

Franziska Shlosser
Late Antiquity; Byzantine; costumes and interiors

Martin Singer
Modern China; Sino-Canadian relations

Robert Tittler
Early Modern England; urban; political and social

Walter van Nus
Modern Canada; urban architecture; Montreal

Mary Vipond
Modern Canada; culture; broadcasting

FOR INFORMATION AND APPLICATIONS, CONTACT:

Graduate Program Secretary
Department of History
Concordia University
1455 de Maisonneuve Blvd. W.
Montréal, QC
H3G 1M8

Tel: (514) 848-2435
Fax: (514) 848-4538
history@alcor.concordia.ca

website:
http://artscl-ccwin.concordia.ca/history/history.html

Concordia UNIVERSITY

real education for the real world